

THANK YOU TO OUR NEWSLETTER SPONSOR

Is Utah too developer friendly?
No, Gov. Cox says. 'We need development. There is no other way'

Housing market needs more supply to solve affordability crisis, so Utah leaders looking to break down barriers for development

Bees leaving Utah's capital for South Jordan's Daybreak. What this may mean for SLC's Ballpark area.

The team will play its final season in Salt Lake City in 2024 and debut a new stadium in 2025.

Rocky Mountain Power provides update on proposed headquarters rezone

A rendering of the proposed redevelopment of Rocky Mountain Power's headquarters in Salt Lake City's Fairpark area. Ground could break on the project later this year.

(Courtesy Giv Communities & FFKR Architects)

Utah approves housing, transit zoning for Vineyard downtown plan

This rendering shows the planned 800-acre Vineyard Station development, which began buildout in September 2022.

(Courtesy Woodbury Corporation)

Take a tour of the Post District, Salt Lake City's new mixed-use neighborhood

It's not quite the Granary, and it's not quite Downtown. But the teams responsible for developing a stretch between those two neighborhoods have quickly assembled a district that's on its way to standing alone in Salt Lake City.

A big development is opening in Herriman this year. What will it feature?

Auto mall expects to include dealerships for cars, boats and RVs, but is this project the best use for so much valuable space?

SYMPOSIUM IS HAPPENING!! REGISTER TODAY!

NAIOP UTAH SYMPOSIUM '23

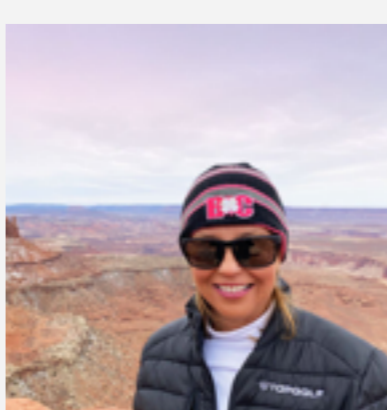

Have a Newsletter idea? EMAIL Jade

NAIOP UTAH AHA - Charity Partner

Refer a friend to NAIOP EMAIL Amy

Click here to unsubscribe.